

HARRISON'S CORNER

By: Harrison Termotto, Teaching Assistant

The holidays and the celebrations during the winter months bring joy and warmth to our hearts regardless of religion. Although these times are times of joy for many, others are not so fortunate. Those who are poor and who are in need still need our help. They do not have such happy experiences during the holidays because they do not have so much to celebrate or to be thankful for. It is up to us to brighten up their winter and to make their experiences better ones, especially during this season. Unfortunately, our country is in a state of economic turmoil and it is harder for us to give so freely. Even though we are experiencing such turbulence it is still important to give what we can. Even if our contributions aren't very much, every bit makes a difference. So we at Simchat HaLev encourage you to donate and perform the mitzvah of tzedakah. Wherever you give and whatever you give, your donations will go a long way.
